UNTOLD MISERY FROM RHEUMATISM
C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months, my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith."

Making Change For Two Fifty.

It was only a little $2.50 goldpiece, but it is surprising the amount of trouble a little thing can sometimes make.

The young man had handed it to the cashier in the restaurant and was waiting for his change, while behind him were two or three other people waiting for him to get out of the way.

But cashiers are methodical, and, furthermore, nine-tenths of them have one certain way of making change that involves dealing in even dollars, as a general thing. No matter what the size of the bill, they take the amount of the purchase out of the first dollar, if it is below that figure, and then hand over the rest of the money in dollars or bills of larger denomination.

That was what puzzled this cashier.

"Oh! Two dollars and a half!" she said, while she was trying to make a mental calculation, according to her usual system.

"That's what it is," replied the young man.

"Of course," she returned, slipping it into the drawer. "Check, 40 cents," and she counted out 60 cents in order to get on the dollar basis as soon as possible, after her usual fashion. "One dollar, two dollars, three dollars—no, that's not right."

She was red in the face as she drew the money back and began over again, realizing that the paltry half dollar in the goldpiece had thrown her financial system out of order.

She made three trials before she got the right amount of change on the counter, and—well, if you don't believe that a $2.50 goldpiece will "knock out" the average "lightning change" cashier, try it some time and you will be convinced. —Chicago Post.

Why He Was Agitated.

A Scotch tradesman, who had amassed, as he believed, £4,000, was surprised at his old clerk showing by a balance sheet that his fortune was £6,000. "It canna be; count again," said the old man. The clerk did count again, and again declared the balance to be £6,000.

The master himself counted, and he also brought out a clear balance of £6,000. Time after time he cast up the columns; it was still a 6, and not a 4, that rewarded his labors. So the old merchant, on the strength of his good fortune, modernized his house and put money in the purse of the carpenter, the painter and the upholsterer. Still, however, he had a lurking doubt of the existence of the extra £2,000; so one winter night he sat down to give the columns "one count more."

At the close of his task he jumped up as though he had been galvanized, and rushed out in a shower of rain to the house of the clerk, who, capped and drowsy, put out his head from an attic window at the sound of the knocker mumbling, "Who's there, and what d'ye want?" "Me, ye scoundrel!" exclaimed his employer. "Ye've added the year of our Lord among the poons!" —Scotsman.

She Was Not Booky.

They were standing close by one of the bookcases up at the library. He was thin and studious looking, and she was buxom and brainless, but evidently bent on impressing her escort. "How do you like 'People We Pass?'" he asked as he turned over the leaves of a book of stories of life among the masses of New York city. "Well, you know," she began, "I really don't pay much attention to them unless I see a real handsome dress, or some man more distinguished than another. I expect I am rather heedless," she added hurriedly, as she saw a tired look come into his face. Then he picked up another book. "I am extremely fond of 'Beauties of Ruskin,' aren't you?" "Indeed I am," she replied heartily, feeling that she was at last on safe ground. "But I don't know yet which I most admire—his eyes or his hair!" And then he said, "Let's go."—Washington Star.

A Mining Story.

A young man returned home from a trip to Johannesburg for his health, and in narrating his adventures he told about buying a silver mine for £3,000.

"I knew they'd rope you in!" exclaimed the old man. "So you were ass enough to buy a humbug mine."

"Yes, but I didn't lose anything. I formed a company, and sold half the stock to a man for £7,000."

"Y-you did!" gasped the old man as he turned white. "I'll bet I'm the one who bought it."

"I know you are," coolly observed the young man as he crossed his legs and tried to appear very much at home.—Pearson's Weekly.

Fond of Bathing.

In the mountains of Japan, wherever hot springs occurred, the natives resorted to them, either on account of their supposed curative properties, or simply to kill time. This taste for bathing seems almost to amount to a vice, and in one place known to the lecturer a man would stay in the water for practically a month at a time, taking the precaution to place a heavy stone on his knees to keep him from floating or turning over in his sleep. The caretaker of the same bath, an old man of 70, staid in the water the whole winter through.—Chambers' Journal.

A Change In the Title.

Maud (smilingly)—So you saw the profound bow I got from handsome Harry Brown? He's just graduated from an agricultural college with high honors as a veterinary surgeon.

Ethel—Yes; so Gladys told me. It's a secret, but she's engaged to be married to him.

Maud (with sudden asperity)—Huh! A cow doctor!—London Tit-Bits.

Good and Evil.

Accustom yourself to submit on every occasion to a small present evil to obtain a greater distant good. This will give decision, tone and energy to the mind, which thus disciplined will often reap victory from defeat and honor from repulse.—Colton.

The Germ Theory.

What the world owes to Louis Pasteur the world's great vocabulary is incompetent to express. Through his researches, and those of the students who have come after him, the light has been turned upon what has hitherto been total darkness. Doubt, experiments and uncertainty have given way to precision and accuracy in diagnosis. As the farmer knows that the chinch bug is the cause of his withered crops, so the physician knows that the bacillus of certain diseases brings about certain symptoms. The microscope is the physician's reliance. A few drops of blood, a bit of tissue, a little perspiration brought under the eye of this magic assistant will tell him at once the cause and progress of the disease. And it is not alone the physician who benefits by this knowledge. The farmer, the vineyardist, the dairyman, the stock raiser, the cultivator of the silkworm and the enthusiast on bees are alike indebted to the discoverer of the germ origin of disease for inevitable aids in their business. A necessity of the near future is an improvement in microscopes and their cheapening, so that knowledge of germs may become more widespread. Every township should have its bacteriologist and its microscopic equipment. There is no study more interesting, and none that is so important to humanity.—New York Ledger.

Carlyle and Scott.

"To read of Scott," says Temple Bar, "makes most others, even of the noblest and best, appear small by comparison." The writer illustrates his meaning by pointing to the contrast between Carlyle and Scott in the matter of sleep. Nothing, he says, short of a "treacle sleep," in which he could lie "sound as a stone" for hours, could satisfy Carlyle.

His naps were serious things, and if any inroad from without or within were made upon them, anathemas and "waes me's" would be sure to follow, while constant nights of waking and aching would be met by Scott with scarce a grumble or by a playful one.

A dog, whose yelping had disturbed his slumbers, moved Carlyle to the jocosely savage wish that he had the animal by its hind legs within reach of a stone wall.

"Bilious and headache this morning," notes Scott, under the influence of a like infliction occurring in the very midst of his sea of troubles. "A dog howled all night and left me little sleep. Poor cur!" with an outgoing of sympathy toward the unconscious troubler of his repose. "I dare say he had his distresses, as I have mine."

Not to Be Done.

It was in a Brixton tram car. He took out a piece of paper on which there were many figures and said:

"I've been trying to invent a puzzle to put on the market, but I can only get so far with it."

"What is it?" asked the other.

"This represents a tram car. There are 13 men on one side and 8 women on the other."

"I see. You want to get 10 on a side."

"No, I don't. Another woman gets in the car, making 9 women to 12 men."

"Exactly."

"She must have a seat. She looks at the 12 men, and"—

"And one of them gets up and offers her a seat, of course."

"Yes, of course. Now what I want is to place her among the 8 women."

"My dear sir," said the other, as he turned away, "you had better tackle the problem of perpetual motion. It can't be done. If there were but 7 women it couldn't be done. Either make your 9 women get off and take cabs, or let one of the men go on the top and catch cold."—London Fun.

All the Vowel In One Word.

There are but six words in the English language which contain all the vowels in regular order—viz, abstemious, arsenious, anenious, facetious, materious and tragedious. There is but one word which contains them in regular reverse order and that word is duoliteral.

Besides the above there are 149 English words which contain all the vowels in irregular order. Twelve of these begin with the letter a; 7 with b, 23 with c, 16 with d, 14 with e, 4 with f, 7 with g, 1 with h, 6 with i, 2 with j, 2 with m, 2 with n, 2 with o, 13 with p, 1 with q, 5 with r, 9 with s, 2 with t, 15 with u and 6 with v.—St. Louis Republic.

A Roland For His Oliver.

Lord Esher, who, when president of the court of appeal, used to keep up a running fire of "chaff" on learned counsel, sometimes got a Roland for his Oliver—as when a young barrister, in the course of argument, stated that no reasonable person could doubt one particular proposition.

"But I doubt it very much," said the judge.

The youthful advocate, not one whit abashed, replied, "I said no reasonable person, my lord."

The master of the rolls could only gasp, "Proceed, sir; proceed!"—Liverpool Mercury.

Rank Growth.

The fond Washington mother has found a new simile for her developing youngster. She no longer likens him to a weed or a mushroom; but declares, with pardonable pride, that he is "growing like a gas bill."—Washington Star.

HE FIRST OF THE SEMI-CENTENNIALS.

The intention of the Sonoma ople to celebrate the fiftieth niversary of the raising of the ar Flag in that city is highly mmendable and should be enuraged.

It is worthy of commemoration n its merits as a historical episode, d it is especially appropriate t the first of the semi-centennial ents in the acquisition of Calinia, of which there will be a amber, should take place upon e old plaza of Sonoma, the scene this prelude to the occupation of n empire. The attempt has been ade by modern historians to be tle the part played by those d pioneers. It cannot be so disosed of, in view of the well-known d well-established fact but for is movement the raising of the erican flag at Monterey twentyree days later would not then ve taken place, and if it had not en done serious complications uld have arisen. The British igate Collinwood followed close the wake of the Savannah, mmodore Sloat's flag ship, and uld have taken possession of onterey if the American commore had not anticipated him.

The frigate Savannah, flying the oad pennant of Commodore loat at her masthead, dropped her chor in the harbor of Monterey the 1st of July, 1846. Under s orders Sloat should have imediately taken possession of the ace, but he was timid and hesited. It was not until he heard sitively of the bold movement of e pioneers in Sonoma sixteen ys before that he decided to act.

The Fourth of July which the pioneers were even then celebrating Sonoma, the day of all others hen he should have floated his ag from the old Custom House aff, he passed by with no sign of ostilities. On the 6th of July, hich was Monday, he wrote to aptain Montgomery in San Franisco: "I have determined to raise e American flag here to-morrow I would perfer being sacrificed r doing too much than too little." n the same letter he gave Captain Montgomery a qualified order to ke possession of San Francisco.

Next day at 10 o'clock 250 men, arines and seamen, were landed der command of Captain Merne, the flag of the United States s raised, and saluted by twenty-e guns from each of the three nerican ships in the harbor of onterey. The Californians exected and were surprised that it s not done on the Fourth of ly.

It is certain that the plunge into volution by the pioneers at Soma decided the question with loat, and had he not have then ted there would have been trouble, r Admiral Seymour on the itish frigate Collinwood came into Monterey on the 16th of July der a cloud of canvas, commissioned, it is believed—though there no documentary evidence of the ct—by the Mexican government establish a protective government over California if on his rival the American flag was not ying in Monterey. It was, however, and four days after his rrival the British admiral squared his sails for the Sandwich Islands, making no comment whatever on the change of flags.

It is then eminently fit that this lebration should take place in Sonoma, and that all persons who e able to get there should attend. The young and vigorous organization of Native Sons should especially interest themselves. It is the ntention, as we are informed, to have a grand barbecue on the plaza, and to have a real old-time pioneer celebration without any great rmality, but such a celebration as would have delighted the hearts of those gallant pioneers, who on the ever memorable Sunday morning June 14th, 1846, took possession of the capital of north California and the person of the commandante del ronteria, General Mariano Guadalupe Vallejo.—Santa Rosa Democrat.

Novelty in advertising is the thing now. The latest and one of the most humorous schemes has been amusing the patrons of theaters for three or four nights, says a city contemporary, and has succeeded in escaping the notice of managers. A bald headed man is the instrument. On his shining plate is painted in indigo blue the name of a patent medicine. He sits in the front row, and conducts himself with propriety, while people behind him are convulsed with laughter, each observer supposing that there is a practical joke some one has played on an unsuspecting friend.

One of the newest uses to which the bicycle has been put is its introduction as an aid to the life savers in patroling the beach.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Poor Indeed!

There are degrees and kinds of poverty, just as there are differences of opinion among those who compute and measure poverty and riches by different standards. Some men deem themselves poor because they are less rich than others, again there are comparatively poor people who are satisfied with a competence. There is a kind of poverty for which no amount of wealth can compensate, namely, a poverty of bodily stamina, evinced by nervousness and a derangement of the functions of digestion, bilious secretions and the bowels. To restore vigor upon a permanent basis there is one remedy that fully covers the requirements, "fills the bill," and this is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. By restoring digestion, giving a healthful impulse to the action of the bowels and liver and tranquillizing the nerves, it fulfills the condition necessary to a resumption of strength by the system. It alto overcomes malaria and rheumatism.

CHAS. McHARVEY.

The Old Pioneer of Sonoma Passes Peacefully Away.

Chas. McHarvey, one of Sonoma's oldest and most respected citizens, died at his home, corner of Spain street and Second-street West, at 9:30 o'clock last Tuesday evening.

The deceased, who during his 42 years residence in this place, had hardly ever seen a sick day, commenced to fail in health a few months ago and was compelled to take to his bed, the machinery of life having practically worn out. Realizing that his days were numbered, with remarkable fortitude and courage he put his business affairs in such shape that everything would run smoothly after he had ceased to live.

Mr. McHarvey came to Sonoma in 1854 and engaged in the blacksmithing business and by strict attention to business he soon acquired a comfortable competency. He was a member of Temple Lodge, No. 14, F. & A. M., and for several terms held the office of City Trustee, making an honest and capable official.

He leaves a widow and four grown children, to-wit: Mrs. Judge Cheney of this place, Clarence McHarvey of Delano, Kern county; Mrs. R. M. Lee, residing in Pennsylvania and Miss Sadie McHarvey.

Mr. McHarvey was born in Oswego county, New York, and was aged 69 years and four months.

The funeral took place Thursday afternoon from his late residence and was held under the auspices of Temple Lodge, No. 14, F. & A. M. He was followed to his last resting place by a large concourse of brother Masons, relatives and friends.

Special Meeting of City Trustees.

The Board of City Trustees met in special session last Monday to canvass the returns of the late municipal election and to declare the result. After examining the poll and tally lists, etc., the Board declared the following to be elected: Henry Hartin, Trustee long term; J. H. Seipp, Trustee long term; L. Modini, Trustee short term; G. H. H. Cornelius, Treasurer; F. Breitenbach, Clerk; J. Eugene Robin, Marshal. A resolution was then passed that the newly-elected officials be notified to qualify within fifteen days of the date of election, after which the Board adjourned.

Exciting Runaway.

A horse belonging to Harry Brown ran away on the Gericke place on Saturday last and for twenty minutes or so created a great commotion. The animal, after running a short distance, left the road and took to the hills. After running up hill and down hill, across gulches and through the brush, horse and cart were finally hung up on a small oak tree where they were found and secured. Remarkable to relate no damage was done if we except the breaking of a portion of the harness.

Disastrous Frost.

Monday night's frost was disastrous to Sonoma Valley wine grapes. It was the most serious frost of the season. The thermometer fell to 32 degrees above zero. It played havoc in the vineyards, except where the owner had persevered the past week in making smudge fires, which were burnt for hours before daylight. Even then all the vineyards have suffered to some extent. This proves what might be accomplished if all would turn out and fight frost together.

Narrow Escape.

On Monday last while the large fruit wagon belonging to Eden Dale farm was being driven into town by Will Campbell one of the wheels came off near the Union Hotel. The vehicle was loaded with teachers, but fortunately all escaped injury, as the wagon did not tip over. The accident was caused by the nut coming off the axle. It was subsequently found half a mile from town.

Over 200 Attend the Institute.

SONOMA SUSTAINS HER REPUTATION FOR HOSPITALITY.

Institute Business Interspersed with Complimentary Concerts, Banquets, Entertainments and Social Hops.

Dr. Osborne Lunches and Entertains the Teachers at the Home.

The thirty-third annual session of the Sonoma County Teachers' Institute convened at Union Hall in this place last Monday afternoon.

The session was called to order by County School Superintendent Davis.

After roll call, in which 208 teachers answered present, Hon. Robt. Howe delivered an address of of welcome on behalf of the people of Sonoma.

J. E. Poppe, President of the Board of City Trustees, followed Mr. Howe, and as the city's chief executive officer, extended to the teachers the hospitalities of the old Bear Flag town.

W. Scott Thomas, on behalf of the Institute, responded in a neat speech.

The teachers then took up their work and proceeded to business. There were addresses, discussions and essays, in which Superintendent Davis, Prof. J. R. Watson, Miss Tuomey and others took part. At 5 o'clock the Institute adjourned for the day.

In the evening Sonoma's hospitality was made manifest by a grand complimentary concert by the Sonoma Valley Band at Union Hall. Among the numbers on the programme was a violin solo by Mr. Bernhard Mollenhauer of San Francisco, a vocal solo by Miss Claire Hope and selections by the Band. The programme, which was an excellent one, was well received, every number being rapturously applauded. Miss Hope's song, "Tyrant, Soon I'll Break thy Chains," showed a pure soprano voice off to advantage and won for her an encore.

After the concert the teachers were invited to a sumptuous spread which had been provided for them by the ladies at Weyl's hall. The three hundred and fifty ladies and gentlemen who filed into the large banquet hall were agreeably surprised at the tastefully set tables which were loaded down with tempting salads, meats, jellies, cakes, etc., and beautifully decorated with bouquets and choice cut flowers. All were seated without confusion and everything went along like clockwork. The tables were presided over by fifteen young ladies who served hot coffee and ice cream.

After supper dancing was inaugurated in Union Hall and kept up until 2 A. M. Thus ended the first day of the teachers' stay in Sonoma.

TUESDAY.

On Tuesday morning the Institute reconvened in three sections, the High School section meeting in the college building, the Grammar section in Weyl's Hall and the Primary section in Union Hall. As on the previous day there were the usual discussions, etc., in which a number of Sonoma's leading educators took part.

In the evening Prof. David Star Jordan, President of the Stanford University, delivered an interesting lecture, his subject being "The Mission of the Fool-Killer." Judging from the Professor's remarks he has a decided antipathy toward the "new woman." The lecture was listened to with marked attention. At its conclusion it was apparent that the school marms of Sonoma county were not very new, as he was loudly applauded by the little gloved hands which could be seen oscillating under great big spring bonnets decorated in the very latest style of the millinery art.

WEDNESDAY.

After a short morning session on Wednesday a special train of five passenger coaches, which had been chartered by the people of Sonoma Valley, conveyed the teachers over the Donahue railway to the Home for Feeble Minded Children at Eldridge, where they were entertained by Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Osborne. Upon arrival at the Home the guests, some three hundred and fifty in number, were ushered into the commodious dining room, where an elaborate luncheon awaited them. The large room was tastefully decorated with bunting, flowers, wild grasses and ferns. While the teachers were enjoying the spread the Home orchestra discoursed soft, sweet music. Luncheon concluded Dr. Osborne, in a neat speech invited his guests to a musical and literary entertainment by the children in the theatre attached to the Home. At the conclusion of the programme the teachers were loud in their praise of Dr. Osborne's method of training and improving the minds of his unfortunate charges. At four o'clock the teachers returned to Sonoma, after which there was a short afternoon session of the Institute and a lecture in the evening by Prof. Martin Kellogg, President of the University of California.

THURSDAY.

The Institute met Thursday morning at 9:15. Will O. Hocker read a paper on "The Country School and Its Master," Hon. J. T. Campbell, President of the County Board of Education, discussed "Scholarship" and Harr Wagner, editor of the Western Journal of Education, had something to say about "Institute Work." Benj. Weed, Principal of the Sonoma Valley Union High School, read a paper on "That Poor Man's Boy—How to do Most for Parent and Son," which was followed by five minute discussions by E. M. Cox, W. C. Nolan, Lyman Hartford, Lizzie Edwards, Frances O'Meara, Clara P. Kellogg; "Discipline,', Prof. W. Scott Thomas; "When and How to Graduate Pupils from Grammar Grades and Preparation Necessary for Admission to the High School," R. M. Sims, Sonoma Valley Union High School; Discussions by H. R. Bull, F. L. Wright, G. L. Ayers, C. N. Watson, Nellie Petray, Helen Markell, Belle Cole, Jas. F. Pressley.

In the evening the teachers were given a complimentary entertainment at Union Hall by the students of the Sonoma Valley Union High School, which had been especially arranged for the occasion by Benj. Weed, the Principal. "The Merchant of Venice" was produced with the following cast:

|---|---|
| Duke of Venice | Zarifa Howe |
| Antonio, Merchant of Venice | J. F. Clewe |
| Bassanio, his friend | Stewart Elliott |
| Salanio | Thos. Burke |
| Salerio | friends to Antonio. Wm. Clewe |
| Gratiano | Jesse Prestwood |
| Lorenzo, in love with Jessica | M. Elliott |
| Shylock, a Jew | D. A. Gordenker |
| Tubal, Shylock's friend | Ernest Campbell |
| Clerk of the Court | Grace Champlin |
| Portia, a rich heiress | Sara Cady |
| Nerissa, her maid | Cecilia Granice |
| Jessica, Shylock's daughter | Elsie Appleton |
| Attendant to Portia | Grace Carmer |

The part of Antonio, the self-sacrificing merchant, taken by J. F. Clewe showed to advantage that young student's talented ability.

D. A. Gordenker admirably portrayed Shylock and brought out all the characteristicts of the Jew as conceived by Shakespeare.

Miss Sara Cady as Portia received much applause for her Queenly grace and marked expression.

Stewart Elliott's interpretation of Bassanio, the gay gallant, showed much study and he at once won the admiration of the audience.

FRIDAY.

The proceedings of the Institute closed yesterday. Prof. F. L. Burke read a paper on "Patriotism, and how to teach it." This was followed by discussions in which F. A. Cromwell, W. A. Wright, S. W. Collins, Mrs. M. E. Floyd, W. C. Roberts, C. O. Sharpe and A. T. Hembree took part. Then came the reports of the committees and a farewell address delivered by Robt. A. Poppe. He said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen and Members of the Sonoma County Teachers' Institute: My distinguished friend, the County Superintendent, doubtless intended a bit of pleasantry when he placed my name at the foot of the Institute programme, but as the best of friends must part, I presume there is no impropriety in my saying farewell to you. In taking leave of the teachers of Sonoma county I am both glad and sad. Glad that the promises of the citizens of Sonoma made to your Superintendent as an inducement for locating the Institute in this city have in a measure been fulfilled. Whether your expectations in coming to Sonoma have been fully realized it is not possible for me to say. You all know whether your reception and treatment during your stay in our midst has been pleasant and agreeable. If there have been any shortcomings in our hospitality, or if anything occurred to mar the pleasure and good feeling which we intended for you, it should be ascribed to our want of experience in entertaining so large a body of people and not to a lack of interest on our part, for I assure you all we did the best we could. I am sad at this moment that the pleasant relations which have existed between us during the present week must be severed. We will miss the instruction which has benefitted us as well as you. We will miss the radiant faces which shed sunlight all around us. Now, that your session is ended and your labors concluded it remains for us to take leave of you. It may be for years, but it won't be forever. Of course the Institute will not meet here next year, and perhaps not the year after, and not until the aspirations of the various other localities to entertain the teachers have been fully satisfied. But when our turn comes again we will receive you as gladly, entertain you as hospitably and send you away as sorrowfully as we did this year. Only we will do still better hereafter as our gladness, hospitality and sorrow shall have correspondingly increased through the memories and experiences of this most joyous occasion. And now, in conclusion, ladies and gentlemen, to each and all of you, a fond and fervent farewell.

NOTES.

State Superintendent Black says that in all his life he has never seen or heard of such generous, open-hearted hospitality as that offered the teachers by the good people of Sonoma.

The teachers pronounced the paper read on Thursday afternoon by Benj. Weed, principal of the Sonoma High School, as being the best literary effort of the session. Mr. Weed is a graduate of the University of California and is destined to become one of our foremost educators.

Everybody in Sonoma Valley helped to entertain the teachers and it would be hardly fair to give especial credit to any particular committee or to any one single individual. All worked together and with a will.

Among the teachers in attendance at the Institute well-known to Sonoma Valley people were Prof. James Reade Watson, Miss Georgia Reed, Miss Maggie McMahon, Miss Jennie Redmond, Miss Juanita Conley and Miss Louisa Smyth.

The students of the High School who took part in "The Merchant of Venice" were highly complimented by the teachers for the excellent manner in which they produced one of Shakespeare's most perfect and popular dramas.

The school marms (heaven bless 'em) say that never in their lives have they enjoyed themselves so much as during the past week. They declare that if the proposition is left to them as to where the Institute of '97 shall be held they shall be for dear, good, kind old Sonoma first, last and all the time.

Much credit is due to R. M. Sims (the school marms of Santa Rosa affectionately call him "Dickey") for bringing the Institute to Sonoma and making the stay of the teachers as pleasant as possible. Mr. Sims is the Vice Principal of our High School and a member of the County Board of Education and one of our most popular teachers.

Sonoma has clearly demonstrated that she can accommodate twice as many people as have been in attendance at the Institute the past week. Many pleasant homes that had been prepared to accommodate from two to six teachers were not called into requisition.

Robt. Thompson, editor of the Sonoma Democrat, was in town on Monday last to report the proceedings of the Teachers' Institute. No press courtesies were extended to him while here and he was compelled to "slosh around" together with the other press representatives who were in town.

If our people expected to see in the teachers of Sonoma spindle-legged, scrawny, vinegar-visaged school marms they were sadly mistaken. Such a gathering of modest, handsome, spring-bonnetted femininity was never before seen in this town.

D. D. Davisson, as Chairman of the Transportation Committee, did the escorting act in great shape. Dan was strictly in it and don't you forget it.

Dr. and Mrs. Osborne of the Home, who entertained the teachers so handsomely last Wednesday, will never be forgotten by them, so they declare.

Prof. Burk of Santa Rosa stirred up a hornets nest in this town when he made a motion on Tuesday before the High School section of the Institute to remove that part from Sonoma to Agua Caliente. This was very unkind of Mr. Burk after partaking of Sonoma's hospitality. Verily, "whom the gods wish to destroy they first make mad." The people of Sonoma, Mr. Burk, will not forget that motion very soon.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, APRIL 25, 1896.

Shakespeare's Heroines.

The fact that boys acted his heroines may have impelled Shakespeare to present his Rosalind, Imogen, Julia and Viola in doublet and hose, because in male attire the boys must have looked and acted their best. It is more easy to conceive a male representative of Lady Macbeth than of Juliet, but we, with our advantages, can never be wholly reconciled to the idea of a woman played by a man. The greatest revolution in the history of the modern drama was the introduction of women upon the stage. This change was caused not merely by art considerations, but arose in part from the laxity of morals and of manners at the restoration; but nevertheless what a mighty and beneficent change it was! What gifts and grace, what loveliness, purity, tenderness, genius, charm, have been shown to the delighted world since women have been played by women within the confines of the magic wooden O! How did, how could, the players of Shakespeare's time procure boys of such intelligence, beauty, delicacy of mind, that they could worthily personate pure, lovely, noble women?

Could we now tolerate any youth in such parts as Imogen, Desdemona, Juliet? Still it must be remembered that the boys who first acted such characters were probably trained, inspired, instructed by the master himself, and he may well have done wonders. It was a hard condition, and twin born with Shakespeare's dramatic greatness, that he should see his women played by lads. Could he ever have been wholly satisfied with the result? — Gentleman's Magazine.

He Was Too Realistic.

Last winter a number of literary people indulged from time to time in amateur theatricals. During February they produced a comedy. One of the actors played the part of a burglar, and had to climb up the outside of the house in which the entertainment was given and enter through the window which was at the rear of the improvised stage.

He hurried round from the dressing rooms and valiantly commenced to struggle up the wall, when a policeman grasped him by the neck, thinking him a veritable burglar.

He started to explain, but the minion of the law would have none of it. The audience was wondering in the meantime why the play did not proceed, and the young actors and actresses on the stage were eagerly waiting for the burglar to enter and give them their cue, when they heard shrieks, yells, oaths and threats from the garden. Rushing out they found the master burglar thrashing wildly about the grass, while a brawny policeman sat on his shoulders hammering his neck into the mud.—Strand Magazine.

Implicated.

A real Mr. Malaprop was discovered the other afternoon in the person of a Broadway cable car conductor. The car was on a down town trip and had few passengers until it reached Fourteenth street. There half a dozen people, five women and one man, got aboard. Three of the women and the man found seats together, but the other two went to another part of the car, thereby leaving it doubtful as to whether they were members of the party or not. The man with the three, instead of giving the exact change, offered a half dollar in payment of the fares, and the conductor was as much in the dark as ever. To inquire was plainly the only way to arrive at the truth. With a polite wave of his hand toward the two women in the farther corner he asked blandly, "Are those ladies implicated?"—New York Tribune.

Cold Treatment For Pneumonia.

The local application of cold is now common in pneumonia. Mortality ranging from 30 per cent to nothing is recorded for various methods of treatment, while the natural recovery without treatment has been found to be about 90 per cent. Dr. Mays of Philadelphia reports 195 cases treated by cold, with 3.58 per cent of deaths. It cannot be believed that any treatment invariably cures, and he regards this as by far the most satisfactory. The action of the cold consists in reducing the fever, strengthening the pulse, toning up the heart, diminishing the pain in the chest and alleviating the difficulty in breathing.

He Got an Answer.

For grave speeches of importance delivered with weight Bismarck was, of course, most celebrated. When annoyed, he nearly always adopted a jesting tone, which must have sounded to his frightened friends much as if the tiger in the menagerie had greeted them with a cordial handshake before devouring.

"Do you mean to break the convention of Gastein?" bluntly demanded the Austrian embassador, Count Kurolyi, of the Prussian minister president.

"No," replied the latter, with great directness, "but even if I did so, do you think I should be such a fool as to tell you?"

Remarkable Natural Bridge.

One of the many natural wonders of Arizona scenery made accessible by the opening up of rail and stage roads is a remarkable natural bridge, in the Tonto basin, not far from Flagstaff. The bridge is 550 feet long, and spans a canyon some 200 feet deep, at the bottom of which flows the river. The bridge is of rock and is perfectly proportioned. The underside is gracefully arched and the upper perfectly level. The walls of the canyon are honeycombed with caves in which are a great profusion of stalactites and stalagmites.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Face.

If we could but read it every human being carries his life in his face and is good looking or the reverse as that life has been good or evil. On our features the fine chisels of thought and emotion are eternally at work. — Alexander Smith.

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

No Chance For the Judge.

At Harrodsburg one day Judge Cardwell summoned a negro boy in his court to testify in a case. The following conversation then took place between his honor and the boy:

"Do you know good from bad?"

"Yes, sir, boss, s'peo er duz."

"Can you distinguish the truth from falsehood?"

"Yes, sah, I kin extinguish truth or anything else eff you'll gimme nuff water."

"Do you know what will become of you if you testify to a lie?"

Let Us Hope They Got a Good Dinner.

When Hall Caine first came to this country, he was invited to Philadelphia by an old friend and fellow Manxman. A New York litterateur who found himself in the Quaker City attended a dinner at which all the 12 guests were talking about the expected lion and his books and looking forward to meeting him. The New York man confessed to knowing Mr. Caine's books only through reviews, and asked the lady at his right which one of the novels he should read first. She answered that she was in the same predicament. The question finally went around the table, and the company laughed to discover that only one person had ever read one of Mr. Caine's books.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Unique Mail Service.

The inhabitants of the small group of islands situated on the south of Iceland possess a very curious method of communication in their so called "bottle post." When the wind blows from the south and one of the islanders wishes to communicate with the mainland, he puts his letters into a well corked bottle, and to insure their delivery he incloses at the same time a plug or twist of tobacco or a cigar. The wind speedily impels the bottle to the shores of the mother island, where people are usually on the lookout who are willing to deliver the contents of the bottle in return for the inclosed remuneration.

People Who Patronize Banks.

There is one savings bank here which keeps an accurate record of the calling of its depositors. During the last year there was only one actor on the list, while there were 1,392 tailors; there was but one editor, while there were 725 laborers; there was but one boarding house keeper and 337 peddlers. There were lots of shoemakers, bakers, barbers, waiters, cigar makers, but very few musicians, liquor dealers, lawyers or policemen.—Chicago Tribune.

Not In One Instance, Anyhow.

"My wife is a woman who is very hard to please."

"She has never given any evidence of it."—Detroit Free Press.

The common lotus was the most sacred flower of the Egyptians. Its representation is everywhere found on their monuments.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.
